

William Wakeham

Royal Academy of Engineering

Thesis 3:
Government acts as an impediment to the exploitation of Intellectual Property

Thesis 3:

Government acts as an impediment to the exploitation of Intellectual Property

- > Do you agree to the thesis?
- > Please vote now!

Thesis 3:

Government acts as an impediment to the exploitation of Intellectual Property

Results:

- > Yes, I agree to it:
- > No, I do not agree to it:

-
- > Governments spend too much time worrying about ownership of IP – value comes from exploitation, not ownership
 - > Accountability is satisfied by ‘not losing’; opportunity cost is not a penalty
 - > Governments are inherently risk averse
 - > Governments and European Institutions do not possess the right expertise or skills to enable them to exploit IP effectively
 - > Government’s role should be to create the right conditions for innovation and exploitation to thrive

Thesis 3:

Government acts as an impediment to the exploitation of Intellectual Property

- > Have you changed your mind? Do you agree to the thesis?
- > Please vote now!

Thesis 3:

Government acts as an impediment to the exploitation of Intellectual Property

Results:

- > Yes, I agree to it:
- > No, I do not agree to it: